

I Can Use My Words

Sometimes I forget to use my words.

I can use words
with pictures,

with written words,

or by talking.

When I use words with people, they can understand what I am saying.

Sometimes I want something I can't have, but it may be a choice later.

I can use my words and ask, "When can I use this?"

Everyone is happy when I use my words.

I can use words to tell people how I feel.

I say, "I am mad."

I'm mad!

or

"I don't like that."

My family and my teachers can help me remember to use words.

I can use words to ask for help.
I can say, "Help me please."

People can understand me better if I use words.

People can have a hard time listening to me when I whine and scream.

Whining and screaming can hurt people's ears.

When I whine, scream, or cry,

people around me can get angry or upset.

Everyone is happy when I use my words.
