The combined resources of the AT NOW! and TiES conferences bring together the brightest minds and latest innovations. Together, champions of AT and TiES work to transform educational settings into universally accessible opportunities that will allow all students to learn and thrive. For the first time, RSOI and OTAP will provide the opportunity for practitioners in both fields to connect at an annual conference to focus on shared missions and expertise, in an extended 3-day format.

Conference strands include Assistive Technology, Accessible Educational Materials, Augmentative and Alternative Communication, Therapy in Educational Settings and Universal Design for Learning, to support learners across the lifespan and the state.
